HOME ON THE WAVES

The largest private residential yacht on Earth, The World, Residences at Sea, sails to Hawai'i in December where its residents will enjoy extended stays in five ports of call (Honolulu, Nawiliwili, Kahului, Kailua-Kona and Hilo) during its 10-day journey across the Aloha State. The sojourn is part of the ship's 2024 voyage to six continents including Antarctica, South and East Africa, South Asia, Indonesia, South Pacific and Australasia. Equipped with world-class amenities and state-of-the-art facilities, the mega yacht travels to approximately 100 ports of call a year, offering a unique ultra-luxury lifestyle of global exploration that is internationally renowned for its journeys to many of the planet's most remote and undiscovered areas as well as to bustling cosmopolitan cities. Resident owners of this "floating city" travel for as long as they desire, spending an average of three to four months (combined) on board every year. The World's 165 residences range from expansive three-bedroom apartments to studios, privately owned by approximately 150 families from 20 countries around the world, with a small number available for resale. LATEST COLLAB // IT'S A SHOE-IN

OluKai has partnered with local artist Noa Emberson for its latest Hawai'i Artist Series collaboration. The limited-edition shoe collection consists of two design patterns: "Talking Story," which is inspired by the novel The Overstory by Richard Powers about the underground fungal network that enables trees to communicate; and "Rain or Shine" featuring an alternating sun and rainbow, and speaks to the beauty and prevalence of rainbows in Hawai'i. For this exclusive collection, Emberson (who works as a designer and artist under the moniker Joy Stain) explored the concept of breezeblocks, which he describes as a signature element of most Honolulu neighborhoods, and a perfect blend of form and function. This is OluKai's ninth Hawai'i Artist Series shoe collection; previous artists featured include Matt Bruening, Brandy Serikaku, Kaliah Ogawa, Wooden Wave, Hawaiian Blue, Nick Kuchar, Cory Taum and Matt Tapia. olukai.com
